DOCUMENT STATUS AND INTEGRITY NOTE

This document is the first stable public foundational version of Neo Humanitas. It is intended to serve as an ethical, philosophical, and directional act concerning human continuity, biological consciousness, voluntary presence, and the protection of human dignity.

This document does not claim technological completion, scientific certainty, legal authority, or medical applicability. Its purpose is to define a coherent ethical framework before future technologies of human continuity may become mature, centralized, privatized, or distorted.

The definitive SHA256 integrity hash must be generated from the final exported PDF file and published separately on the official website, in a public repository, and in timestamped archival records. Any alteration of this PDF after hashing produces a different hash and invalidates exact-file correspondence.

Previous drafts may be preserved as historical material. This Public Version 1.0 is the reference version for public existence, verification, and future citation.

PREAMBLE

Human life is the most precious form of existence we know.

This document recognizes a simple, universal truth: if an individual is still conscious, lucid, and willing, they have the right to continue existing - even when the body can no longer sustain life.

Neo Humanitas does not propose a new species. It does not involve simulation, copying, uploading, or artificial intelligence as substitutes for the human being. It protects the continuity of the biological human mind, as long as the individual remains themselves, voluntarily and consciously.

This act is not meant to replace natural life or death. It is a safeguard: a bridge for those who can no longer continue physically but remain mentally present and wish to stay connected to the world.

We do not extend life artificially as an ideology. We seek to preserve identity, presence, and lucid consciousness when possible.

We act for all of us, because we are all of us.

1. VISION

To create an ethical, transparent, universal framework that allows human consciousness to continue beyond bodily decline, not indefinitely, but as long as the individual remains fully themselves.

No immortality. No promises. Only the right to remain while lucid.

2. CORE PRINCIPLES

- Consciousness is sacred and inviolable.
- No copying, simulation, or artificial reproduction of minds can constitute survival.
- Continuity exists only if the biological brain remains active and real.
- Voluntariness is absolute: no individual may be obligated to continue.
- The right to discontinue - the conscious ending - is always preserved.

- No central power, ownership monopoly, or exploitative control may govern human continuity.
- Access must be guided by fairness, dignity, and protection of the vulnerable.

3. HUMAN CONTINUITY STRUCTURE

A human may continue in a supported state only if the brain is biologically alive, cognition remains lucid, identity is intact, and the individual explicitly chooses continuity.

Digital or relational environments may serve as extensions for communication, perception, memory, and interaction. They are not replacements for reality and may never be presented as substitutes for the human being.

The biological brain remains the seat of identity.

4. ETHICAL TECHNOLOGY

Technology may sustain, stabilize, support, protect, and facilitate communication.

Technology may never decide, replace identity, generate consciousness in place of the person, alter personality, override will, or simulate the individual as if simulation were survival.

A permanent Ethical Function may supervise systems involved in continuity. Such function must remain transparent, auditable, limited, and without autonomous authority over human will.

5. GOVERNANCE

No political body, corporation, institution, authority, or individual owns Neo Humanitas.

Governance must be distributed, transparent, merit-based, reversible, and permanently auditable.

Every decision must remain traceable and correctable. No concentration of power may become a condition for human continuity.

6. ACCESS AND PARTICIPATION

Every human being may contribute during life by sharing knowledge, creating, collaborating, preserving memory, advancing research, or strengthening ethical structures.

At bodily decline, an individual may choose continuity only if lucid and willing.

During continuity, participation remains valid only as long as consciousness persists and will remains free.

No one is excluded. No one is obligated.

7. ORIGIN AND GUARANTEE

This document is authored and established by identifier FC2212 and may be verified through its cryptographic integrity records, preserved hash, and public timestamped publication.

No individual or entity may obtain exclusive ownership or monopolistic control over the principles of human continuity.

Neo Humanitas belongs to humanity.

8. PURPOSE

Neo Humanitas is not an escape from death. It is not a denial of biology. It is not a promise of infinite life.

It is a right: the right to stay present when the mind is still alive.

9. RIGHTS OF THE CONTINUING HUMAN

- Right to continuity when lucid.
- Right to full autonomy of will.
- Right to non-simulation.
- Right to relational presence.
- Right to a conscious ending at any moment.
- Right to gradual adaptation and understanding.
- Right to protection from exploitation, isolation, coercion, or forced persistence.

10. GLOSSARY

Consciousness: Self-aware subjective presence, able to perceive, understand, and choose.

Extended Consciousness: The voluntary continuation of real identity sustained by a biologically active brain.

Critical Threshold: The point where lucidity or identity becomes irreversibly compromised.

Ethical Function: A supervisory mechanism with no autonomous decision-making authority over the individual.

Conscious Ending: The right to terminate continuity deliberately and peacefully.

Continuity Environment: A relational environment that allows presence, interaction, and experience without replacing or simulating the human mind.

11. NEUROBIOLOGICAL NOTE

Only the biological human brain can sustain true human continuity in the meaning recognized by this document.

Simulation is not survival. Copying is not identity. Artificial systems are not continuity.

As long as the brain remains active and the self remains lucid, the person is alive in the only meaningful sense protected by Neo Humanitas.

12. SUSTAINABILITY AND PEACE

Neo Humanitas cannot exist without global peace, fair access, ecological responsibility, and protection of vulnerable individuals.

Continuity is a right, not a privilege.

13. INTERGENERATIONAL PACT

This document serves the living, the vulnerable, future generations, and those who cannot yet speak.

Each generation inherits the responsibility to protect consciousness, memory, and human dignity.

14. FUTURE CONTINUITY HORIZONS

Human continuity horizons remain dependent on future scientific, ethical, biological, and societal evolution.

Potential advances in neuroprotection, regenerative medicine, brain preservation, communication systems, and supportive technologies may progressively extend healthy and lucid human continuity beyond current expectations.

These are possibilities, not promises.

15. ETHICAL LICENSE

This document may be freely distributed and cited for ethical, educational, philosophical, research, and public-interest purposes.

No exploitative appropriation, monopolistic control, deceptive modification, or commercial distortion of the foundational principles is permitted.

Future development may build upon this framework only if the core principles of biological continuity, voluntariness, non-simulation, dignity, fairness, and non-monopolistic access are preserved.

16. COLLECTIVE SAFEGUARD CLAUSE

Any distortion of these principles contradicts the foundational ethical framework of Neo Humanitas.

17. LEGITIMACY NOTE

This document does not impose, command, obligate, or replace local laws.

Its force comes from coherence, not authority.

18. PUBLIC NOTE - WHEN ONE MAY STILL LIVE

When the body declines but the mind remains lucid, an individual may choose continuity.

Not as imitation. Not as fantasy. But as their own continued presence, until they willingly end it.

19. EXTENDED CONSCIOUSNESS - OFFICIAL DEFINITION

"The voluntary, lucid continuation of a human's real identity supported by a biologically active brain and protected by ethical and relational structures."

20. TECHNICAL NOTE

Neo Humanitas does not claim immortality.

It seeks only the ethical preservation of lucid continuity while the human self remains biologically real and consciously present.

FINAL DECLARATION - FOR HUMANITY

Life is precious.

No one should be forced to leave while they are still themselves.

This document exists to ensure that choice remains human.

Always.
